Re: Ajustall "Non Backflo" Fitting

In answer to your letter of June 10th, we believe that we would like to have you change your description of the various joints. We have gone through the description of the invention and have changed the wording in most cases where the joints are referred to.

Kindly prepare the papers with the inventor's name listed as - Robert E. Russell. There have been several members of our engineering staff who have contributed to the design, but since you are preparing the papers for assignment of the patent to the Company perhaps the one name will suffice.

We are returning herewith the papers and print pertaining to the fitting.

With best regards, we are

Yours truly,
